ANARCHY IN COLORADO.

Mob Rule in Full Effect at Coal Camps—Seven Men Killed.

DENVER, March 13.—Mob rule has reigned among the coal miners in the coal camps of Huerfano County since Sunday night, and seven of their victims, Italian, all but one have been slain by bullets from the mob's Winchester. Four of the Italians were killed from ambush yesterday while being taken prisoners in a wagon to the jail at Walsenburg after a coroner's commitment for complicity in the murder of Abner J. Hickson, a temperance saloon-keeper at Rouse. An American boy, who was driving the wagon, was unintentionally killed by the fusillade of bullets.

Before daylight this morning a mob of miners and citizens of Walsenburg gathered outside the jail where two of the Italians were confined, got inside by a pretence and killed both the prisoners. It is reported that the same mob thirsting for more bloodshed later took out of jail a German charged with rape and killed him. During the excitement two other prisoners escaped.

The names of the dead so far as known are as follows: Joe Welsby, boy, driver of prisoners' wagon. Lorenzo Danino, killed in jail. He beat Hickson to death. Pete Jacobini, killed in jail. The names of the four Italians killed in the road are unknown. Five others, suspects, had been released from custody before the mob rose. All of them lived at Rouse, where the Italians far outnumber the Americans.

Governor McIntyre telegraphed the State Department at Washington that he had instructed the Sheriff of Huerfano County to give him particulars and protect the Italian miners from further mob violence. He stated in his dispatch that from information he believed the Italian miners were American citizens, but he was not certain.

To-day's attack upon the jail was the result of the extreme excitement provoked by the summary vengeance of Hickson's friends. Three other Italians who were in custody as possible accessories to the murder of Hickson were overlooked by the mob. The massacre of the five men from ambush was evidently well planned with the exception of the killing of the driver. Four of those killed had been held for trial by the Coroner's jury. It is openly asserted that Welsby's death was accidental. In order to be certain that the fifth Italian held for Hickson's murder should not escape, the mob to-day did not stop to identify the two prisoners found in the jail, but riddled both with rifle balls.

The motive of the murder of Hickson is the subject of much speculation. The deceased was 36 years old and a native of Arkansas, and was not of an aggressive or quarrelsome disposition. It is thought he was attacked last Sunday while on the road from Walsenburg to Rouse, a coal mining camp six miles away, and knocked from his horse by a blow on the head. Workingmen going to the Rouse mine discovered him with his skull fractured. The injured man was unconscious and died two hours later. There was absolutely no clue to the perpetrators of this crime, but T. J. Brewer, pit boss at the coal mine, solved this difficulty. Hastening to his home, he secured a trained blood-hound and put him on the scent. The dog struck a trail that led the pursuers to the rear of a saloon, a half-mile away. The intelligent brute bayed and rushed to an old table standing in a rear room. An examination of the table revealed fresh blood-stains. Lorenzo Danino and Jobatto Antonio who were found in the room were immediately arrested. The dog continued to a neighboring cabin where Pete Pozzett and Frank Aurico were found. The quartet of Italians made many damaging admissions of knowledge of the murder, and upon close questioning the names of five others implicated were divulged. Danino was charged with being the chief conspirator. Horsemen scoured the surrounding country and by 4 o'clock in the afternoon all the suspected Italians were under arrest and lodged in jail, where they remained until called to attend the inquest.

After the attack on the wagon, all was comparatively quiet until soon after midnight. About that time seven or eight men wearing masks knocked at the door of the jail where Danino, who was charged by the other Italians with having struck the blows that killed Hickson on Sunday, and the Italian wounded in the wagon attack were confined. In answer to a question the men said O'Malley the Sheriff wanted to enter. As soon as the door was opened, the guards found guns in their faces. Part of the masked men then went to the cell where the two Italians were confined, and fired 8 or 10 shots. Each prisoner received four or five bullets. One died instantly, but the other lived a short time in great agony.

Dr. Cuneo, the Italian Consul in this city, was this afternoon officially notified of the occurrences, and called on the Governor. If the men who were killed by the lynchers are American citizens, he will take charge of whatever property they may have for the Government he represents. The doctor had not the information at hand to form any opinion about the affair.

WALSBERG, Colo., March 14.—Quiet reigns again in the Italian colony here. While the friends of the murdered men are still intensely excited, there is little probability that they will attempt to resort to violence. There are a large number of Italians in Denver and they are loud in their denunciations of the slayers of their countrymen, but they have made no effort to organize, and are closely watched by the police, for whom they have a wholesome respect. Although loud threats of vengeance are made on every hand, there is a lack of concerted action, which indicates that there will be no serious trouble. Governor McIntyre is in readiness to send troops at a moment's notice should any necessity for such action arise. Only one of the victims was an American citizen.
